TOM NEILSON CONCERT

Tom, a “farmboy with guitar who likes ball games and human rights,” sang and played his guitar at the Dolphin Playhouse on Friday, September 30. There were about 45 people there to hear him, only 15 or so from SCUUF. Between songs, almost all written by himself, he gave us some background for each. Many of the songs were developed at the request of groups of activists facing some local problem usually having to do with corporate overreach.

Some of the songs left me wistful, some made me angry and at least two caused me to laugh out loud. There was an amazing variety. Folk music has long been a favorite of mine and Tom certainly didn’t disappoint. And from the remarks of others I gathered that they felt the same. He’s a talented performer and is generous with his gifts. Thank you for all you are doing to right the wrongs of the world, Tom. And thank you for not mentioning the upcoming election!
